CHANGING DIRECTION

Explore your options

If you are looking to change your course or current direction, we can help you.

Feeling unsettled at university is fairly common. You have already taken the first steps towards overcoming your problem by asking for help.

Common issues include:

- Course choice: disliking the subject you have chosen
- University choice: perhaps you don’t feel it’s the right place for you
- Financial worries: finding the cost of living difficult
- Personal problems: feeling homesick, relationship issues, or study pressure
- Future career plans: worrying if your course choice is relevant

Take some time to clarify your thoughts and feelings by working through the questions on the next few pages. The next steps could also involve talking through these ideas, in confidence, with a Careers Consultant.

1. Briefly describe your current situation

(e.g. the course is not what I expected, I am finding the course difficult, I feel like I don’t fit in, I would prefer to go to a different university, my career ideas have changed etc.).

2. What were your reasons for choosing your current course?
3. Do you have ideas about what you would like to do next?

(e.g. I want to study a subject that leaves my options open. I would like a more vocational/practical course, I have a preference for a particular style of course, I want to find full time work etc.).

Take a look at the flow chart below, then work through the relevant sections on the following pages

Finally, complete the action plan on the last page.
If you are thinking about changing your course it is helpful to reflect on your past experience, what interests you, how you like to learn and what has motivated you to succeed in the past.

Write down any ideas about your preferred course, including practical issues that may affect your choice (e.g. subject interest, teaching style, assessment method, more vocational, geographical considerations).

Circle the skills you would like to develop on your new course …
